The worth of a True Wife.

The man that eak no lore is a monater. The many be hearts so forces by pride and egotism, or paralyzed by disappointment, as to be indifferent to affection. But these are icobergs, drifting in darkness, on Polar sear, cold, barren, desolate. In them no tree or shrub plants a root; no flower sheds its fragrance there, found that it was not good for must obe a done, chiefly because he needed the conscious affection of a female heart to soften the aspectics of his own, and thus give completeness to his being. In the deep, full affection of a wight heart of the sound that it was not good for must obe chiefly because he needed the conscious affection of a female heart to soften the aspectities of his own, and thus give completeness to his being. In hard labor. This comforts him under irritation, elander, reproach, m the outside world.

To meet this craving of man, woman is adapted. She is not anabitious of wealth or fame. She shrinks from great changes and great perils. She had been able to the struggles of the slowing the sound that appreciation and interest which wealth, a stronger arm, and a higher course. She home is her earthly heaven; and she holds a lore had the search will than her own, the man will offer the struggles of the sort man, the mean and the holds a lore had the search of God, is given, not bought. Gold is power, of the land to ablie a sterner will than her own, the man will offer see her course. The transver of a wife's affection, this makes her burdwith a wealth of affection which mak tion gives retirement without solitude, and society without the rough intrusion of the world. It plants in the husband's dwelling a friend who can bear his silence without weariness—who can listen to the detail of his interests with sympathy—who can appreciate his repetition of events, only important as they are embalmed in the heart. Common friends are linked to us by a slender thread. We must retain them by ministering, in some way, to their interest, or their enjoyment. What a luxury it is for a man to feel, that in his own home, there is a true and affectionate being, in whose presence he may throw off restraint, without danger to his dignity; he may confide without the fear of treachery; and be sick or unfortunate without being abandoned. If, in the outward world, he grow weary of human selfishoverlooks his defects.

Who is it that supplies our lack of interest in ordinary things, and sends us out into society prepared to meet the claims of decency, taste, and propriety? Who caters for our appetites, and swelters in heated kitchens for our appetites. idulgence; and, often unthanked and unblessed, plies the needle, in the lone evening, for our benefit? Who is it that schemes, by a rigid economy, to get the most elegance and comfort from the least tax on our income? Who furnishes the ready pin, the napkin, the bandage for our wounds, the cup for our thirst, the friction for our aching head, the medicine for our pains? What angel of mercy is it that watches by our sick pillow, bears all our complaints and irritations, and moves with muffled step, when we slumber. plies the needle, in the lone evening, for our ben-

Ordinarily it is the office of divine truth to weaken our confidence ness, his heart can safely trust in one whose soul in earthly blessings. Thus it is said: "He that yearns for his happiness, and whose indulgence trusteth in his own heart is a fool." "Trust not in man, whose breath is in his nostrils." "Put Nor, in the matter of personal comfort, in the not your trust in princes." "Trust not in unthousand things which combine to shed happiness apon man's pathway through life, is the wife a erous. Co. A. & H. F. POOR. THY HAUS,

A FTER SEVERAL YEARS LABOR AND experimenting upon whales, on the whaling ground, with his apparatus, combined with the advantages of being a practical whaleman, the Patentee has been enabled to obtain an instrument in form of a Bomb Lance, which for utility and effectiveness cannot be excelled.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 10, 1856.

CAPT. R. Brown—Sir. I take this opportunity to inform you that we used those Bomb Lances we bought of you, and found them to be of great nenefit in capturing whales amongst the ice.

The first whalf that we used the Bomb Lance on was killed in the following manner.—The boat went alongside of the whale and the boat-steerer fired a Bomb into him and then fastened to him with a gig iron; the Bomb was heard to explode, and the whale did not blow after the Bomb exploded. The above-mentioned whale was in the ice, and it is our opinion that we should not have got that whale and many others that we did get, if it had not been for your Bomb Lances, and we fully recommend them to the attention of those fitting out whale ships.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS WALL, Master bark George.

HONOLULE, March 17, 1856.

CAPT. ROBERT BROWN—My dear Sir: I used your Bomb Lances in taking a whale, north, the past season, which made 250 bbla. of oil. We never could have taken him without said Lances, as our boats could not get near enough to use the common hand lance.

Tours Respectfully,

G. L. Cox, Master whale-ship Magnotia.

HONOLULU, Mar. 15, 1856.

CAPT. ROBERT BROWN—Dear Sir: I take this opposite to inform you that I used your Bombs on the voyage in the Herald, and found them effective in taking whales, and would recommend them to all whalemen, and especially around the ice. I also used the harpoon and got most of the whales by your Guns and apparatus.

Respectfully, ISAAC ALLEN, Master ship Herald. R. COADY & CO., Honolulu. LAW NOTICE.
